

As an amateur radio operator engaged in weak signal HF communications from an urban environment, I am concerned that any increase in the noise floor from Power Line Communications in the amateur radio bands would make weak-signal communications and experimentation impossible. Please don't allow this. The HF spectrum is such a small, finite resource, that it could be lost forever if the general public embraced this system.